

Chief Executive Officer

Inclusion Melbourne (formerly Gawith Villa) was established 60 years ago, yet prides itself on bringing a fresh approach that assists adults with intellectual disabilities to create individualised and flexible lifestyles, enabling access to meaningful employment, learning and leisure activities.

Reporting to a collegiate Board, you will provide strategic leadership, operational frameworks, financial management and human resources development. You will create practical structures for more effective and responsive systems to manage each person's unique needs, backed up by an integrated financial system.

This broad role requires a proactive leader with an open communication style who can combine sound business skills with an understanding of the human services sector, grow community awareness, and ensure organisational sustainability for the future.

Please email your application or call Philip Mayers for further information.
